Business Woman

Dear Miss Business Woman:
You had the right idea when you sent in your letter, but you have evidently overlooked one or two things.

First as the box at the head of this column states all articles submitted must be signed by the sender. If you want us to use a name-de-plume in the published article we will be glad to do so. However, the copy of the letter which we keep on file here and hold strictly confidential must bear the correct name of the sender.

As for your complaint in the letter. The sale of Christmas seals for the California Tuberculosis Association is in no way connected with the Red Cross. It is an individual organization functioning individually in every respect, except that in some cases of charitable work their duties dovetail.

As far as could be learned this drive for funds for tuberculosis preventive work is never combined with the community chest in any city, but relies solely on the sale of seals at Christmas time. The organization did not combine with the Richmond Community chest here, according to officials of both organizations. Twenty-five percent of the gross proceeds of the sale of the seals go to the California Tuberculosis association and the balance stays right here in this county to be devoted to preventive work.

The proceeds of the sale of the seals go entirely toward the fight against tuberculosis. The local committee making the sales here works under the control of the California and National Tuberculosis Associations, and, with their approval, for three years have conducted the "Sunshine Camp" where from 40 to 60 under-nourished children have had, each year, six weeks of mental, moral and physical sunshine, which has added wonderfully to their well-being.

In making the plea for the purchase of stamps this year the local committee sent out the following statement:

"We must continue and enlarge our work; we should have a Preventorium, where a more or less limited number of children may have proper care all the year round. A visiting Tuberculosis nurse has also been suggested.

The good we can do is limited only by the extent of the co-operation shown by volunteers, your support, together with that of our County Board of Supervisors and of many parents, communities and organizations, enabled us to finance the camp expense this year without the necessity of an additional drive as was the case in previous years."

Civilization is just a slow process of learning to be kind.

Contractor Lays Blame On Faulty Construction of Peerless Plant

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15.—Two men are dead as the result of injuries sustained late today when a wall of the Peerless Welding works on Mission street collapsed into an excavation in the adjoining lot.

It is believed that four men are buried beneath tons of brick and broken timbers. Rescuers were working tonight searching the ruins for the missing men. Lack of basement in the welding works and possible flaws in the new foundation work were the direct cause of the tragedy, according to John Cahill of Cahill Brothers, who are constructing the building next to the Peerless plant.

CROSSING LAW NOW IN EFFECT

Motorists who cross a railroad track in Contra Costa county in the future while the wigwag is in motion commits a misdemeanor and are subject to $500 fine or six months imprisonment or both as well as possible injury.

Contra Costa's railroad crossing ordinance, passed by the board of supervisors and said to establish a precedent in the United States, goes into effect this morning.

The ordinance was passed as a result of a conference between the supervisors and railroad officials in the county. It is not applicable when the driver of any vehicle can determine that a wigwag signal is operating for a train that has already passed. The law provides that the vehicles must be brought to a stop not closer than 10 feet nor more than 50 feet from the rails while the signals are operating.

The law was passed for the purpose of reducing the toll of crossing accidents and will be rigidly enforced, it was announced.

PROHIBITION BATTLE STARTS IN CONGRESS

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The battle of booze in Congress, which bids fair to become a crusade for beer and light wines began in the Senate today as the wet forces delivered their first broadside against the 18th amendment and the Volstead Act.

The opening gun in the fight that raged throughout the day was fired by Walter Edge. He denounced prohibition as "unenforceable, a travesty and breeder of criminals" and urged the passage of his bill legalizing 2.75 per cent beer as a step toward solving the "most serious problem that has confronted the nation since the world war."

Briand immediately summoned Paul Doumer, who had served as Finance Minister in Briand's 1922 cabinet and offered him the vacancy. Doumer requested time for consideration.

TENTH AND MACDONALD SITE OF TWO BUILDINGS TO BE ERECTED SOON

MERCANTILE TRUST COMPANY TO BUILD BANK; F. A. MULLER STORES AND OFFICES

Plans for the construction in the immediate future of two new office buildings at Tenth street and Macdonald avenue involving an expenditure of a quarter of a million dollars were made known yesterday. One of these, a four story structure, is planned for the northeast corner by the Mercantile Trust Company and the other, a two story building at the southwest corner, by F. A. Muller, wealthy contractor of Oakland. Muller will secure a permit today for the construction of a two-story building at an approximate cost of $35,000 and the Mercantile Trust company is understood to be adjusting plans for a four story bank and office building which will cost in the neighborhood of $200,000.

Mercantile Trust Company Bank Muller Store and Office Building

Persistent rumors for the last few days that the Mercantile Trust company was planning the construction of the new bank building were confirmed last night by Larkin J. Younce, vice-president of the Mercantile Trust company here.

In discussing the proposed new building Younce made the following statement:

"Tentative plans have been prepared by the Mercantile Trust company for the construction of a four story bank and office building at the southeast corner of Tenth street and Macdonald avenue. All arrangements have been completed for the erection of this building by the company, but obstacles have been met in the local building ordinance that unless changed may indefinitely postpone the erection of the structure here."

The building as planned will be of the most modern construction throughout and occupy a lot 50 by 108 1-2 feet.

The first floor is to be occupied by the bank, while the three upper floors will be constructed for offices along the most modern lines including hot and cold water in every room.

The exterior of the building is to be in keeping with the architecture and type of building, which have recently been constructed in that section of the city.

The permit which will be taken out this morning by F. A. Muller for the construction of a combination store and office building on the southwest corner of Tenth street and Macdonald avenue will be for approximately $35,000.

The building will be a two story structure, occupying a site 81 by 112 1-2 feet. The structure will contain seven stores on the first floor five of these will front on Macdonald avenue and two on Tenth street. All of the stores will have a complete front of plate glass and present the latest in store fronts. Although no leases have as yet been signed the owner has had requests for practically all of the stores.

The second floor is to contain eighteen offices all of which will be patterned along the latest and most modern lines.

The exterior of the building will be of brick and terra cotta and will follow the Spanish Renaissance type of architecture. Construction on this building will start immediately.

WEATHER PROPHETS

It is generally admitted that the weather up to present this year is very unusual for most parts of the country, and weather prophets over the country are now coming forward with all sorts of predictions for the winter.

In spite of the fact that Washington is the official home of the United States Weather Bureau, there are a lot of amateur prognosticators, many of whom frown on the official weather forecasts.

Near the center of the business district in Washington is the noted Center Market where farmers from nearby Maryland and Virginia sections come to dispose of their products to the city consumers. Among these farmers are a number of amateur weather prophets and they are predicting that, despite the peculiar weather, this is going to be a mild winter for the United States. They base their predictions on the activities of the squirrels and the thin corn husks. One of them, who is a sharp eyed Virginian farmer voiced the general opinion to a newspaperman the other day as follows:

"Yes, I realize that nearly every one is predicting a hard winter, but that may be due to the coal strike.

"Fact is, the winter is going to be mild. I grant you that the weather man can tell when a storm is coming and he doesn't often miss. But there are certain natural signs which if observed will beat the weather man all hollow in telling us what kind of a winter we are going to have," said the Virginian farmer.

"Squirrels and other animals I have noticed that lay in winter supplies are not very busy putting anything in this fall. I have noticed too in shucking corn very often that the squirrels were very busy laying in corn and nuts. Now they pass by the corn piles and stop only long enough to eat one meal. I take this as a sign of a mild winter, and this sign has always proven good in the past years.

"Another sign is the thin husk on the corn—very thin and just like last year. Then, again, take the thickness of the coat on the horses. My horses have not yet begun to grow their winter coats, and their hair is almost as thin as in mid-summer."

The official Weather Bureau reply to this is; "Ap-ple-sauce."

CONGRESS IS REALLY REPUBLICAN

Following the Statement by congressman Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the House of Representatives, that the rule by blocs is over so far as the national house is concerned, comes the announced determination by Republican leaders that the coming Congress shall be so organized that its committees can be depended on to support the regular Republican organization at all times. The Committee on Committees, all important will, it is said, see that on the various committees there will be a Republican majority which cannot be overthrown by a combination of Democrats and the Radicals.

Congressman Nelson of Wisconsin, who managed the late Senator La Follette's campaign for President on the Independent ticket, is ousted from the important Committee on Rules and will also lose the chairmanship of Election Committee Number 2. Other Wisconsin congressmen who are no longer regarded as Republicans will probably lose important committee memberships.

Turn-back cuffs finish the long sleeves, and the tie-straps are included in the side seams of the garment. Medium size requires 4 3/4 yards 40-inch silk.

Romantic Beauty of Old Spain Set Down in Glittering Gotham

THERE is a saying that all the world, at some time or other, comes to Broadway. This may not be literally true, but certain it is that this great American thoroughfare is one of the most cosmopolitan in the world. The whole world knows Broadway and Broadway has a rather intimate acquaintance even with some of the world's farthest corners.

When the New Coral Gables building, just off Broadway on Forty-second street, was completed, New York was frankly puzzled for a brief period. There was something strange, foreign and yet vaguely familiar about the thing. Then the light of understanding began to creep over this greatest of American cities and Gotham awoke to a realization that she had been elected permanent hostess to a particularly charming guest from ancient and sunny Spain.

Spain Comes to Broadway

For that is the architectural motif of the structure that is now the Coral Gables building. Originally and for many years it was known to New Yorkers as the Rand building. There was nothing particularly outstanding about it. It was just one of the typical New York buildings of that particular section of the city.

When it was taken over to house the offices of the New York representatives of the remarkable new Florida city, H. George Fink, the architect who has been responsible for much of the typical Mediterranean architectural beauty of Coral Gables, went to New York with his plans and took charge of the work of remodeling the old conventional front. He wanted to create something that would be unique in New York and at the same time typically representative of the spirit of Coral Gables. He was audacious enough to attempt the task of introducing a touch of true Spanish architecture into the heart of New York. The illustration above testifies to the fact that he accomplished it.

The view from the street presents a typical Spanish facade with three entrance arches entering upon an inner patio constructed around what was the conventional lobby of the old office building. Overlooking this patio, on the interior, is a particularly attractive flower-hung balcony and from this balcony the view of the patio, with its reproduction of an old Spanish well, its stone benches and its old wrought iron doors is delightfully quaint. The reception hall and inner offices are also finished in this typical Spanish design.

An Old World Jewel Set down in the midst of the modern theatre district of New York, the Broadway and Forty-second street section, this quaint touch of old Spain has attracted considerable attention. As one views it from the front approach, one might expect to catch the notes of a Spanish guitar and the lilts of a clear tenor love song. The roar and rumble and glitter of the greatest of New World cities ham it in on every side. Sometimes one gets the impression that this hub of modern noises and this glare of modern lights will close in gradually until they throttle and kill this strange newcomer. And one is just a trifle surprised as time goes on to find that this old Spanish jewel continues to send forth its quiet, Old World glow in such a strange and unaccustomed setting.

For a great many years there has been a saying that one could find anything one might desire somewhere in New York. Until this Coral Gables building appeared, however, there was nothing like it anywhere in Manhattan.

THE EARLIEST AMERICANS

WE all know that the white explorers of the 15th century found in America a barbarian race, who became known as American Indians, so called because what the discoverers sought was an all-water route to India and they believed the new country to be a part of India.

But was the Red Indian the first inhabitant of this continent? What was his origin?

Some scientists believe that once a land bridge extended from Asia to Alaska at what is now Bering Strait and that the first inhabitants crossed over this bridge from Asia. A few hardy evolutionists advance the theory that the first Americans, like Topsy, "just grew," originated from the soil.

THE geologist makes historical records of rocks and gravel-beds. Shown a certain substance in a certain state he undertakes to say:

"That is ten thousand years old"—or maybe fifty thousand or a hundred thousand years.

If human bones are found in association with such rocks or gravel, he says:

"Those are the bones of men ten thousand years old," and so on.

Excavations yielding bones of extinct animals or human bones, weapons and working tools of primitive nature have been made in gravel and other deposits in Trenton, N. J.; Table Mountain, Calif.; Nampa, Id.; Lansing, Kan.; Claymont, Del.; Newcomerstown, O.; Madisonville, O.; and elsewhere.

THE relics being found in previous undisturbed layers of the earth's surface, estimates as to their age were made. Some scientists said ten thousand years some twenty thousands and some thirty thousand.

There is some agreement on evidence indicating the presence of men in America in what is called the Old Stone Age, when humans share the earth with the mastodon and other species of animals which have no modern successors.

All long-distance speculation? Perhaps but it is interesting because of the importance attached to it by scientists and because the work of tracing out the first Americans goes steadily forward in the hands of a number of important organizations.

HOW the New Yorker rails against the traffic jams, which a natty traffic cop quickly brings to order! Fifty years ago he would have been forced to learn the hard lesson of patience in one of the classic Fulton Street jams. No traffic cops then, and it received all the coming and goings from the sister city of Brooklyn, whose only connection lay in the ferry service.

True, solution was soon to come, with the pier of the Brooklyn Bridge arising upon New York's open mouthed wonder. But until it was finished, up the artery of Fulton poured live and dead stock, carts of squawking hens, wagons of vegetable produce from Long Island farms, shouting drivers and bewildered horses, and scuttling passengers.

SYNOPSIS

Saltonstall Cabot Adams, halted on Long Island by a State Trooper, convinces him that the strange garb he is wearing is a maygarade costume he had worn the night before in Stamford, Conn. He had left Stamford suddenly to search for Connemara Moore, whom he hopes to marry, but who disappeared. Connie, her Aunt Celimena, Sweetie and David Lacy also are all on Long Island—following a night of wild adventure, but are about to set out for Stamford.

Aunt Celimena bowed deeply. "You qualify, Mr. Lacy, but unless I mistake myself I just heard you say that you would be forced to leave us in order to go over some private matters with your friend McTish. I believe that's the name you mentioned."

"It's the name, all right," Lacy agreed. He hesitated, then turned to Connemara. "That sort of puts me in a hole," he said to the girl. "I really ought to check in on Mac. As the advertisements say, there's a reason. But don't for a minute think you've seen the last of me. In fact—and I might as well go on record in front of this charming group of witnesses—you're going to see so much of me that some day you're going to say, 'Dave, my dear, don't you really think a man and a woman ought to get away from each other for one day after forty years of married life, however happy those years—'"

"Say!" yelped Sweetie and jammed her elbow into Connemara's side. "Didn't I tell you that guy was a fast worker? He begins where the others leave off."

"Is that so?" growled Bing. "Now listen here, Connemara."

"Is that so?" growled Bing. "Now listen here, Connemara." But the girl herself, who was staring blankly into David Lacy's burning eyes, suddenly laughed.

"And which way do you want me to do my hair?" she said.

"Any way," said Lacy. "Wear a pink wig, for all I care. By golly, you could wear a pink wig."

And Celimena raised her hand. "That will do, Mr. Lacy. Perhaps you have never heard that personalities are seldom in good taste. If you will secure us a car—"

"I'll drive it," said Bing.

"And I'll oil it," said David. "I'll oil it and gas it and water it and dust it, and presently I'll follow it in a somewhat faster car—and after that I shall simply let the splendid discriminatory powers of Miss Moore do their natural work." Suddenly he wheeled to the girl, and his eyes grew soft. "Eventually, why not now?" he pleaded.

"At the first sign of rain put on your chains," said Connemara solemnly.

Lacy grinned. "That one is aged in the wood," he returned. "Still, mother's the health doctor. Just the same, I'm going to be the lucky one in five. That's the insidious thing about me. And I know," he bowed, "that you'll accept no substitutes."

Connemara's eyes were twinkling. "Make good on the car," she said. "I'm asking the man who owns one."

"Good kid," said David Lacy warmly.

Ten minutes later Bing, his eyes surely, was driving one of Lacy's cars down the smooth road to the Bayville ferry. In the seat beside him sat Sweetie. Behind them huddled Aunt Celimena and her niece.

"Take that swaddling band off your head," snapped Aunt Celimena presently. "I don't like it. And it looks silly."

But Connemara only smiled. "Not yet," she said cryptically.

At the ferry house Aunt Celimena suddenly observed in a perfectly natural tone of voice: "Why, there's Saltonstall! Isn't that odd? Ask him in, Constance Mary."

Connemara's eyes followed her aunt's. "Oh, merciful heavens!" she gasped. "Poor old Salt! I'd forgotten entirely that he was in fancy dress. Oh, Auntie, look how he's skulking along, as if he was ashamed of himself. Oh, I'm sorry for him!" A sudden twinkle flicked into her eyes. "No, I'm not. He's funny. He's the funniest thing I ever saw in all my life." And now she began to laugh.

"Look, there's Salt," announced Bing abruptly from the front seat. "Look, Connemara. I wonder how

"My goodness, Bing, are you color-blind?" Connemara gulped out. "Good Lord, for the last half mile I've been staring ahead at that red thing and thinking to myself, what a funny-looking gasoline pump! Oh, Bing, go over and grab him before he commits suicide or something."

Bing leaped out of the car, grasped the astounded Saltonstall by the arm, and led him back amid the chuckled plaudits of the ferry-house crowd.

"Oh, Mama," shrieked a tiny girl, "there's Little Red Riding Hood's daddy! Look, Mama."

A queue of admiring small boys swarmed after the red-clad young man in somewhat the manner of a tail escorting a flaring comet. "Get out," blared Bing at the small boys. They withdrew to a safe distance.

Then Sweetie spoke. "My Gawd," she breathed in awe, "if it isn't Archibald again! Say, Percy, I didn't really get them pants in the dark last night. Did you lose a bet on Harvard or are you really a chorus boy after all? I just adore chorus boys."

Said Salt harshly: "Shut up." Then his eyes found Connemara's. "Haven't you a blanket or a robe in the car?" he pleaded. "Oh, thank Heaven! Here—give it to me." He clutched at the proffered robe, flung it about his glistening redness and climbed stiffly into the automobile.

"I've had a rotten time," he announced wearily.

"Well, it hasn't been a strawberry festival for anybody," Connemara gently reproved him. "I'm glad you're all right, though."

"I assure you I'm very much all right," said Saltonstall Cabot Adams, to whom the enfolding blanket had completely restored his wonted dignity. "I'm not only here in Connemara, but I have here your token of our engagement."

Bing snapped his head to the rear. "Don't be an ass," he growled. "I told you—what that meant last night."

But Aunt Celimena spoke up. " gentlemen, please," she protested. "We have all had too much. This is no time—"

"Once in a while you say a mouthful, Aunt Celly," agreed Connemara with a tired smile. "Besides this—"

"No more discussion, Constance Mary! Not at least, while this terrible shadow of uncertainty hangs over us."

"Uncertainty?" Salt demanded. "What do you mean?"

"I mean exactly what I say. Those horrible men—and their fiendish associates!" Her lip curled just perceptibly in the direction of Sweetie. "I tell you I shall not sleep a wink until they are every one in jail. That is why I want Mr. Brewster and both Saltonstall and Bingham to remain with us at Moorelands tonight. I feel in my bones that something is going to happen."

Sweetie wheeled in her seat, faced the group in the rear of the car and deliberately winked.

"Us poor defenseless women!" she murmured. "Ain't it the truth?"

From the ferry house came the shouted warning, "All aboard!" Bing threw in the clutch and the car moved slowly forward, toward Moorelands—and the night that lay ahead.

Rod La Rocque Plays Lead In "Feet of Clay"

"Feet of Clay" the latest production for Paramount by the man who made "The Ten Commandments," will be shown at the Richmond theatre. The story is one of New York and California and features Rod La Rocque, Vera Reynolds, Victor Varconi, Ricardo Cortez, Julia Faye, Theodore Kosloff and Robert Edson in the principal roles. It is an adaptation by Beulah Marie Dix and Bertram Millhauser of the sensational successful magazine story of the name by Margaret Tuttle.

The California episode consists of exotic beach carnival scenes at Catalina Island. The New York scenes fit, according to the best DeMille standards of dramatic contrast, between the Harlem flat of Vera Reynolds and Rod La Rocque and the luxurious home of Julia Faye, Amy's half-sister and her husband, played by Robert Edson.

Other features on the same program include "The Tourist" a Johnny Arthur comedy scream, "Prizma" the screen magazine.

Oil Burner Co. Wins In Suit

The suit instituted by W. A. Houts, against the Heinen Rotary Oil Burner company in an effort to collect $299 alleged to be due as fees for selling the burners was decided in favor of the defendant yesterday by Justice of the Peace John Roth. Justice Roth made the ruling, he said, because Houts was not able to prove he had sold the burners. Clara D. Horner represented the defendant and Houts acted as his own attorney.

Norma Shearer Appearing At The California

Beautiful Norma Shearer, supported by Lew Cody and Willard Lewis, is the star of "His Secretary," which opens a two day engagement at the California theatre this afternoon.

In this Carey Wilson comedy written expressly for her, Miss Shearer not only proves her ability in dramatic and love-making moments of the play, but demonstrates for the first time that she is talented in the art of make-up. In the early sequences she appears as an old maid stenographer, and later comes forth in the sort of finery we are accustomed to seeing her in, proving that the modern girl must be an adept in the art of dress in order to succeed in the world of business as well as in other circles.

Cody and Willard Lewis play the business partner roles. This is Lew's third consecutive comedy part, and Lewis has a role similar to his famous "Babbitt" characterization of last season.

Other features on the same program include "Santa Claus" a novel and timely film made especially for the entertainment of the "Kiddies"; International News Events, gathered from the four corners of the world; "Know Your Friends in Richmond" a motion picture of prominent Richmond citizens with a cash reward of $25 in prizes if you can guess who they are?; Larry Canelo at the organ.

Make a Desk Pad

This simple desk pad is easy to make. Choose a fabric to fit in with the room decorations of the friend for whom it is planned. The base material is just a strong piece of cardboard with two strips for each end, under which to slip the blotter. The best quality of liquid glue holds the cover material smoothly in place. Use the glue sparingly on the cardboard and fabric. Lap the cover generously over all edges. Finish the back by gluing on some plain material. A little individual blotter holder and a pen wiper, made the same way, to match, will make this gift even more attractive.

THE GEEVUM GIRLS

BILLY'S UNCLE

GIRLS APPEAR AGAINST PAIR

(By Universal Service)
LONDON, Dec. 15.—Five attractive girls testified today that Hayley Morris, brother of last year's derby winner, had made love to them soon after they arrived at his country home to take positions as cooks or housemaids.

Morris, with his wife, is on trial here charged with offense alleged to have been committed at his beautiful home, Pippingford Park, in Sussex.

The evidence of the girls was strikingly similar most of them declaring Mrs. Morris failed to protect them when they appealed to her. Mrs. Morris was held swooning most of the time she spent in court today. She frequently sobbed and was consoled by her husband as the harrowing testimony was delivered.

The fight for seats in the courtroom by the fashionable public continued today, and police had to fight off the great crowd. A verdict in the case is expected Thursday.

NEW TOWN ADDED TO MIAMI EVERY DAY FOR THOUSANDS EXPECTED THIS WINTER

Built—one whole town every day!

This is the brisk pace at which Miami, Florida, has grown since its last season ended so that it could entertain 100,000 more pleasure seekers during the lively 1925-26 season than it ever had before.

Boats, trains and motor cars are bringing to the "Magic City" tourists and new residents who wish to enjoy flowers and sunshine in December. As first sight evidence that the city is expecting them, they find its gateways pushed farther out by acres of new homes and its skyline pushed higher up by scores of new apartment houses and hotels.

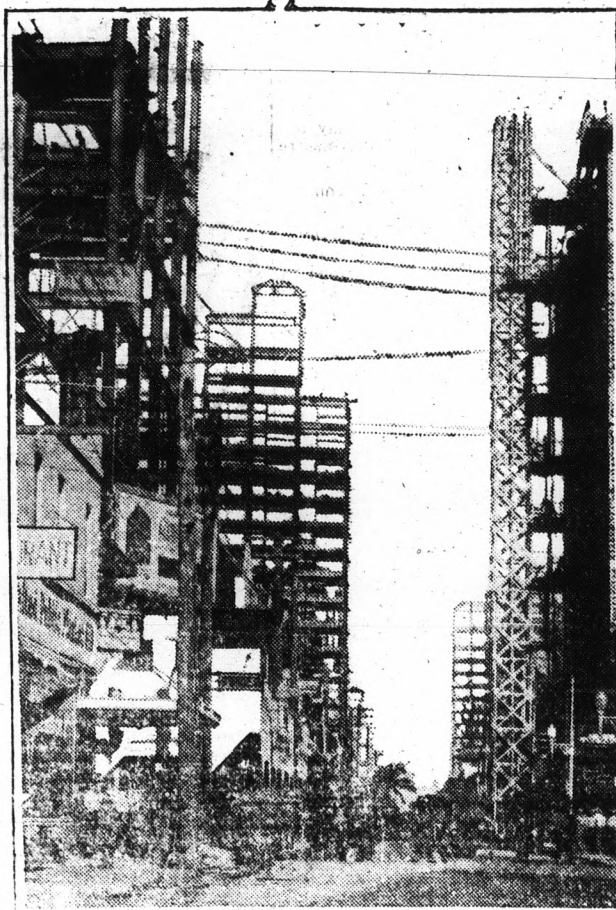

"Miami will accommodate all its visitors this winter just as it always has," declared E. G. Sewell, president of the Chamber of Commerce of Miami, the other day, in reviewing the city's expansion. "We are used to having our population double during the winter season, so have learned how to take care of it."

"To provide comfortable lodgings, there have been built in Miami, since last season, 7,500 individual homes and 150 new hotels and apartment houses. That amounts to a daily average of forty new residences, one forty-room hotel and forty apartment house suites a day—a fair size town."

"In addition, the new $10,000,000 Miami-Biltmore hotel, the top of which will be the highest point in Florida, will open soon after the Christmas holidays."

Schools are keeping pace with homes and hotels—a new high school and twelve new elementary schools being constructed for opening this winter, according to Charles M. Fisher, Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Electric lights and power have been extended into sections of Miami created since last season at a cost of twenty-five million dollars; parks at a cost of $7,000,000; telephones at $2,000,000; water facilities at $3,500,000; and boulevards at $4,000,000.

The Lion's club enjoyed an interesting program yesterday as the result of the chairmanship of Ray Ralph. Rev. Earl W. Haney, of the First Presbyterian church, of Richmond, gave an eloquent address on the spirit of Christmas time. Barbar Carrick and Helen Marie Ralph, two local child artists entertained with song and dance numbers. They were assisted by their mothers, Mrs. Carrick and Mrs. David Ralph, in providing specialties on the program.

Bert Tucker reported on the medical attention which is being provided for a little boy in needy circumstances by the club. One of the highest scores ever bowled in Richmond was checked up to the credit of Axelson in the Standard Oil league games played at the Seventh street drives. Axelson turned in a score of 742, just 22 pins less than the alley record. He was also high man in the individual game with scores of 207, 286, and 299. No one even came close to coming up to that mark.

Pheasant, Quail To Be Planted In California

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 14.—The state fish and game commission is working on plans at the present time to raise quail and pheasants on the state preserves for general "planting" in various counties of the state. A former Washington state game official will be the superintendent. It was revealed here today.

Only a comparatively small number of quail or pheasants are to be planted in each section, it was announced, as with reasonable protection both birds multiply so rapidly that it is only a matter of four or five years before they are so numerous that an open season can be declared the year around. Sportsmen throughout the state are greeting the announcement of the distribution with open arms and unlimited enthusiasm as the pheasant is at all times protected from buck shot in this state.

GRIDDERS ARE READY FOR BIG CHARITY GAME

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 15.—Fourteen colleges and universities are represented in the East vs. West football game to be played at Ewing Field, Saturday afternoon, December 26, under the auspices of Islam Temple of the Mystic Shrine for the benefit of the San Francisco unit, Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children.

The Eastern team will leave Chicago December 20, arriving here December 23. While there they will be royally entertained by the Chicago Shriners. Shrine temples along the route the team will travel will entertain the men. Islam Temple will send a special delegation of Nobles to Sacramento to meet the team. On arrival here the men will be met by Islam's uniformed organization, 500 strong. Illustrations: Potentate Hugh McKevitt, Islam's Divan, and Nobles wearing their fezz, symbolic of Shrinedom. They will be escorted up Market street to the City Hall, where Mayor James Rolph, Jr., will present them with the football to be used in the Gridiron Classic of the world.

Similar entertainment for the Western team is being planned. A "million dollar" banquet will be tendered both teams by Islam Temple of the Mystic Shrine after the game.

C. D. (Sved) Woods announced that the Western team will wear gold jerseys with blue stripes on each arm and large blue numerals. The Eastern team will wear blue sweaters with gold numerals. Nobles from all parts of the United States and Canada will attend Islam's All Star Football game. Reservations have come from Honolulu, Havana, Mexico City and other distant points. Tickets can be procured at Islam Temple, 650 Geary street, San Francisco by mailing checks to Lionel B. Samuels Ticket Chairman. It is estimated by the committee in charge that 35,000 football enthusiasts will jam Ewing Field for the event.

An invitation to the Eastern players to visit Honolulu for a special game against the University of Hawaii early in January has been extended the team thru Potentate McKevitt of Islam Temple, by the Potentate of Aloha Temple.

HOUSE UPHOLDS BIG TAX SLASH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Standing firmly by the three hundred twenty-five million dollar tax slash bill recommended by its financial leader and approved by President Coolidge, the House of Representatives today overwhelmingly rejected plans to include amendments for income tax exemptions for "little fellows" and brought the bill nearer to final passage.

HUSKIE CARD AT PEACE
SEATTLE, Dec. 15.—In the wee small hours of this morning a pine of peace was smoked and a part signed whereby the Washington Huskies and the Stanford Cardinals are once more the best of friends and will continue athletic relations for years to come. A committee will also be picked to chase officials to officiate at the future games between the colleges.

SCANDAL GROWS
IOWA CITY, Dec. 15.—Springing from almost nothingness the Rockne affair has grown rapidly and into startling proportions. Now comes word that the Washington Huskies and the Stanford Cardinals are once more the best of friends and will continue athletic relations for years to come. A committee will also be picked to chase officials to officiate at the future games between the colleges.

FUSKIES PRACTICE
SEATTLE, Dec. 15.—The Pacific Coast football conference kings, the Washington Huskies, began practice today for the year-end game at the University of Washington in the Stadium of Roses in Pasadena. The players are getting into practice shape and will start scrimmaging next week. They were permitted to break training during Thanksgiving Week so have to work hard.

L. O. O. HAS NEW COACH
Since the days of Hugo Bezdek who really put the University of Oregon on the map, that school has not had a coach as good as the one now in charge. The new coach is John W. McEwan, Army captain for three years, has been signed on a five year contract. He is one of the foremost coaches in the country and will do some good.

FOUR SCHOOLS OUT
NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—With the ending of the football season, four Eastern colleges find themselves without coaches. Knute Rockne "quitted" his post at Notre Dame, and no one has taken his place. At Columbia he out of luck, Oregon lost Captain McEwan from the army, Bob Fischer cast down the reins at Harvard, and no successor is indicated. Dick Harlow quit Colgate and nothing has been done there.

LA BARBA AND LAZARUS FIGHT TO BE ARRANGED

By Universal Service

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Fidel La Barba, world flyweight champion has arrived from California to make preparations to box Joe Lazarus on the Christmas fund card at the new Garden, December 23. "I am glad to have the chance to come back to New York," said La Barba. "Lazarus did beat me once in the amateurs, but I hope to be able to give a better account of myself this time. I have had more experience professionally than Joe."

"Will I fight Genaro again? That is to Mr. Blake, my manager. It will be all right with me. I am matched for a twelve-round fight in Los Angeles in January. Clever Sencio, a dandy Filipino fighter, will be my opponent. "I will do my best against Lazarus and am sorry the fight is for only six rounds."

Another fighter who will be on the Christmas fund card will get here from Los Angeles tonight. He is Martin Burke, the New Orleans heavyweight, who will oppose George Godfrey, Tiger Flowers and Mike McTigue, also Ernie Jarvis and Corporal Izzy Schwartz are in hard training for their matches on the same card.

BASKET LEAGUE GAMES PROVE HARD FOUGHT

A pair of fast games were seen in the Richmond Basketball League at the Roosevelt gymnasium last night when the McRacken five defeated the Standard No. 2 28 to 17, and the La Moine Drugists, beat Kearney-Furrers 21 to 12.

The Standard-McRacken game was probably the best of the evening. The teams played evenly until the last quarter when the McRacken men took the lead and put the game on ice.

Gillan, star McRacken center, proved a whirlwind on the floor and his shooting eye was working perfectly. He looped in a total of 15 points or nearly enough to win the game by himself.

Carson, playing running guard on the oilers quintet—was doing about the same thing with his team. He got 10 of the 17 points. Following are the lineups and the points scored by each man:

McRacken—Huzefka, f., 3; O'Brien, f., 6; Gillan, c., 15; Lee, g., 2; McLaughlin, g., 0. Standard—Tillotson, f., 3; Libby, f., 0; Prolo, c., 4; Luckenbaugh, c., 0; Carson, g., 10; Francisco, c., 0; Cornell, g., 0.

The lineup game was rather slow and without many thrills, although several long shots were scored by each team. The scoring was practically divided among the entire string of both the Drugists and the Stationers.

The lineups and scores by each man are:

LaMoines—Kovec, f., 4; Nichol, f., 0; Fanning, f., 2; Pitchford, c., 0; Moore, g., 7; McLaughlin, g., 2.

Kearney-Furrer—Bertoni, f., 5; Mattiari, f., 0; Gerkin, f., 4; Hutton, c., 0; Woolsey, c., 3; Mino, g., 0; Mallanni, g., 0.

GOOD GAMES THURSDAY

Of exceptional interest are the games to be played at Roosevelt gymnasium on Thursday night. The Standard No. 1 and the Pullmans will compete in the main attraction of the evening. Both teams are with percentages of 1000 and the fans have been looking forward to the day when these cage teams battle each other with great interest.

STUDENT KILLS HIMSELF AFTER EXAMINATIONS

Raymond Garwood, nineteen-year-old University of California student and member of a prominent Berkeley family, after completing his final examinations, went home and killed himself with a .38 calibre revolver. Authorities in Berkeley declare that the tragedy was the climax to a breakdown brought by over study. Members of the family believe, however, that he was examining the revolver and that the death was due to the accident. The boy was considered an exceptionally bright student, and had not appeared to be ill or worried. After he had come in the house, he talked with his father and mother and seemed to be in good spirits. He then left the room, and shortly after one shot was heard. The shot was fired through his temple.

He is the son of Fred J. Garwood, an investment banker of San Francisco. The mother is reported prostrated by the shock. Raymond Garwood, uncle of the boy, declared that the boy had made a hobby of guns and weapons and that the death was due to an accident.

Mismanagement Charged At Deaf and Dumb School

Startling accusations were made yesterday in a communication sent to Governor Friend W. Richardson by Miss Alice Heinz, ousted dietitian at the state school for the blind and deaf in Oakland. Miss Heinz declared in her letter that food riots occurred in which children at the school broke $90 worth of dishes each month, tore up parts of the campus buildings, and staged general riots at the end of each school term.

Favoritism for the blind pupils over the deaf and dumb were included in the charges as well as lax business methods, which permitted 15 persons to sign food requisitions; and lack of an auditor for the books of the school for three years.

Miss Heinz stated that she was not endeavoring to bring her own "unjust dismissal" which she claims was due to a political issue, before the governor, but merely wanted to see the conditions bettered in order that the children might have better nourishment and better care.

Miss Heinz, in speaking of the alleged riots, said that the children in clearing the tables would put refuse in all left-overs, including milk, to prevent reserving. The business manager said that the children broke $90 worth of dishes each month just because the food was not right, it was reported. Miss Heinz said that upon her arrival at the school the children staged riots at the end of each school term and at one time tore up some school steps that cost $100 to replace.

Miss Heinz also criticized the management in the construction of the Vista Del Mar new home for blind girls. She said that it was built without trunk rooms, with no place for supplies, not even an ice chest, and with no provision for the four additional teachers. It was here that favoritism was shown she said.

According to Miss Heinz, four vacuum cleaners, two radio sets, expensive lily bulbs and other improvements were purchased for the blind girls, while the deaf and dumb children hadn't a single rocking chair or indoor game.

Thomas A. Boyer, of Richmond county prohibition officer, yesterday learned of an attempted ruse of Albert Klingbell, 35, former Danville barber, on parole from the county jail, by which he hoped to mislead prohibition officers into believing he was in Alameda county. The deception was learned when Klingbell was arrested at Salinas charged with beating Albert Anderson, who is reported in a Salinas hospital near death.

Klingbell's arrest at Salinas was divulged when the Salinas probation officer forwarded to Boyer two letters written by Klingbell, one in English directed to Boyer and enclosed with a letter written to his brother in German, asking him to mail the letter to Boyer from Berkeley. The letter to Boyer said that Klingbell was employed in Berkeley.

Klingbell was arrested at Danville for possession of liquor, was sentenced to 500 days in jail, and was paroled after serving 100 days. Salinas authorities, according to Boyer's communication, are awaiting the outcome of Anderson's injuries before instituting prosecution against Klingbell.

CAST OF SHOW TO BE HONORED AT DINNER HERE

In honor of the cast of the Richmond Elks annual charity show presented last week, a banquet will be given in the club rooms next Thursday night. The young ladies will be the honored guests but the entire cast of 50 people who worked so hard to make the production a success will be given the appreciation of the lodge. A. M. Irwin and James M. Stewart have charge of arrangements.

The officers of the local lodge, together with a cast of the minstrel show will journey to Pittsburg on next Monday night. The initiatory degree will be conferred by the officers and the minstrels will put on the entertainment.

A committee composed of C. K. Parker, W. F. Wilson and Chas. Drake met last night and decided that on account of the nearness of Christmas the ladies' night dance next Saturday evening will not be a masquerade affair. The masquerade will be held at some future date but the guests of the lodge at the dance next Saturday will be required to come in costume, it was announced.

SECOND CRASH VICTIM DIES

PITTSBURG, Dec. 15.—Another victim of the automobile crash here Sunday morning passed away at the St. Martin's hospital early yesterday morning. Clyde Martin, 39, Pittsburg steel worker, received fatal injuries when the car in which he was riding with Gus Olsen, also of Pittsburg, crashed into a parked bus here. Olsen was instantly killed, but Martin lingered on for 48 hours suffering from a fractured skull. A double funeral service will be held for the two men at Pittsburg.

More Material For New Wharf

Additional piles to be used in construction of Wharf No. 2, will be landed on the Richmond Inner harbor today from the steamer Multinoham, it was announced yesterday. This will be the third sea-going ship to enter the inner harbor.

Back of the Christmas Joy is a Story of Heat

CHRISTMAS TIME and a big appetite. Good things ready for you—with their real flavor brought out by steady heat.

Whether heat is needed for baking spice-cakes, for warming the home, or for roasting the Christmas turkey—gas furnishes clean, healthful heat.

For over one hundred years the very essence of heat has been sent through concealed pipes to the exact place of combustion. This source of fuel has been found the most convenient. Yet, from time to time, the service has been improved. So now, when burned in modern equipment, gas is healthful, clean, and efficient.

Wherever gas is used, it means quick heat, far cleaner cities, and a constant delight to mankind.
